

Midlands Environmental Business Company is the corporate custodian of the Midlands Environmental Business Network (originally Midlands Environmental Business Club). Established in 1991, MEBC is committed to promoting the values of sustainable development (the amalgam of four sets of values – economic growth, social responsibility, environmental protection and the prudent use of non-renewable resources) as being good for businesses and stimulating significant business opportunity. This includes new products and services created by change caused by environmental impact such as climate change, new legislation, and the growing focus on corporate social responsibility. Change creates opportunity. MEBC provides a practical focus on how the business community can benefit and play a lead role on behalf of its own interests and those of society as a whole.
